Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

"Now what are you going to do about it?" Mussolini asks the League of Nations, and it is this truculent attitude that is really stiffening the backbone of many a League delegate. Not even a fence straddling politician likes to have a whip popped in his face. The League will probably wait till some time in June, after the French elections are over, to decide definitely what shall be done, but in the meantime the sanctions are still in force and these are eating Italy's vitals.

A month or two ago a news item in these columns reported an unusual increase in the sales of canned dog food. Last week a Republican in the United States Senate in a long windy speech called attention the national aspect of this phenomenon. He intimated that "recovery" must still be some distance away since more and more companies were engaging in the manufacture and sale of dog food. And while we are willing to discount all such speeches by at least fifty per cent, there is no doubt that the sale of dog food has risen far beyond the normal requirements of dogs. We are informed that snipers, in some instances, are purchasing this canned food whenever it bears the label: "Fit for human consumption." This is only a straw in the wind of course, but it does indicate a lowering of living standards in a considerable element of the population throughout the country. Almost any grocery store now will give a customer for dog food his choice of a half dozen different brands, whereas a year ago, not more than two or three were carried. In short there seems to be many a "forgotten man" who has not yet been remembered in Washington.

The "lone wolf" Robinson, accused of the kidnaping of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll of Louisville, Kentucky, is now in custody. Thus the Federal G-men have captured the last of the more notorious fugitives who were on their "most wanted" list. It may be nothing more than a coincidence, but it has been quite some time since we have had a kidnaping that made the front pages. The fraternity must be much discouraged and those who were about to graduate from other crime into the kidnaping business must have discovered that the high profits are more than offset by the casualties.

A chorus of California editors is condemning the action of Great Britain in intervening to obtain a stay or commutation of the death sentence for Alexander Mackay, Canadian criminal, who was sentenced to the gallows for taking part in the kidnaping of members of the prison board. Britain, undoubtedly, leads the world in speedy and adequate justice for criminal offenders. Apparently, however, there exists some suspicion of the kind of justice in which this country deals. Time was when Britain sent a sheep thief to the gallows. But now stealing a human being is not punishable by death in the British isles. Since it is thus punishable in this country the British probably feel that their cousins have gone queer again.

Mackay was an alien, a Scotchman. He richly deserved the punishment because, had his pistol pointed at Joseph Stephens, prison board member, not missed fire, he would have been a murderer. Generally speaking we have been too tender with alien criminals. Many of them, some estimate as many as 2,000,000, are in this country illegally. The criminals and those who have sneaked into this country, should be deported. That would afford us relief in a big way. While the New Deal has set up machinery for the capture and punishment of bank robbers and kidnapers and has made a splendid job of it, another long step in freeing this country from its criminal burden would be the deportation of all aliens who have no right here, and certainly all criminal aliens.

MERLE COULTER JOINS NAVY

Merle Coulter, who graduated from the Nevada City high school with the class of 1935, has enlisted for a four year term in the United States navy and left Wednesday for San Diefio where he will remain three months before being assigned to a ship.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coulter and with his parents has resided in Nevada City nearly four years, making many friends here who wish for him success in his new field of work.

Bigelow Launches Campaign For Seat In State Senate

Richard L. P. Bigelow, retired forest supervisor of the Tahoe National Forest, has announced his candidacy on the Democratic ticket for the State Senate from the seventh district, which includes, Sierra, Placer and Nevada counties.

For 34 years, Bigelow was connected with the United States Forest, retiring the last of April, having reached the age limit.

Just prior to his retirement he was approached by influential friends who asked him to run for the State Senate. Never connected with political life, Begilow was reluctant to accept but finally yielded.

"I feel I can be of greater assistance to my friends in the Placer, Sierra and Nevada counties in the state senate than in any other position I might accept," he said.

This statement is typical of the tall, white-haired 62 year old outdoor man who has devoted his life to serving his country as a forest supervisor. He comes of pioneer stock, his father H. H. Bigelow coming to California in 1850.

In 1892 due to ill health he left San Francisco where he was educated and took a ranch at Sampson Flat, 52 miles east of Fresno. He ran cattle there.

In 1902 he was appointed ranger for the Kings River canyon district in Fresno county which is now in the Sequoia National Forest. He was the first year long ranger appointed in California.

His rise in ranks was rapid. In the fall of 1903, he was sent to Inyo county as head ranger and in August, 1905, he was appointed supervisor of Trinity National Forest with headquarters at Weaverville. There he organized the Trinity, Klamath and Shasta National Forests and placed supervisors over them.

In 1906 he moved to Yreka and there took charge of the Klamath National Forest, serving until November, 1908 when he was transferred to the Tahoe National Forest as supervisor.

At Redding in the winter of 1905 1906 he helped to organize the first cattleman's association. Since then he has been an active backer of the Tahoe Livestock association which he also helped organize.

One of the finest tributes paid to him upon his retirement was that of the men under him and those who in former years had served with him. They said he had the reputation of sending more service men up for promotion than any other United States forest service man. M. B. Pratt, state forester, was one of these men. W. B. Rider, Pratt's assistant, was another.

He has always stood for a high standard of living for the laboring man and will continue to work toward that end in the state legislature.

Good roads have always been a happy hobby of the man who was the dean of forest rangers in California. Bigelow built the first trail in the summer of 1903 from Simpson Meadows to Tihipiti Valley, in Kings river canyon country, in Fresno county. It was the start of all trail work.

He did the preliminary work to start the Yuba Pass highway and because of other work became known as the father of the Downieville to Sierraville highway.

Realizing the importance of proper roads, Bigelow has always worked for funds for highway construction. He obtained road work on the east side of Lake Tahoe. He was the first to recommend and worked to obtain a road now under construction from Sierraville to Hobart Mills.

During his career, he has been a constant advocate of and has obtained appropriations for mining roads and such other major roads as were needed in his district. In the legislature he can be depended upon to ask and fight for such state roads as are necessary.

Knowing conditions in the three counties as he has for 28 years, Richard L. P. Bigelow is the ideal

SOUND HEWGAG! WHISKERINOS TO MEET TONIGHT

The Whiskerinos of the Universe, Nevada County Club No. 57, will meet this evening at 8 o'clock in Armory Hall. The meeting will open with two rousing songs by Mrs. Bonner, well known vocalist, and following that the Whiskerinos chorus will be organized and the songsters will lead the concourse in singing some of the roaring songs of '49.

Ted Janiss, chief boss of the Whiskerinos, reports that North San Juan Whiskerinos are turning out to a man to attend tonight's meeting. They have chartered the school bus to make the trip. Several auto loads of the brush faces are also coming to demonstrate the luxuriant growth that the balmy climate and fertile soil of the Ridge produces. It is claimed that the San Juan Whiskerinos are coming over with several ringers from the gold panning regions, who have not had a shave since the depression began, and will try to prove that these gazabers started on scratch with the rest of the members of Club No. 57.

From Peardale a delegation is coming whose whiskers are said to be so long that while pruning their pear trees in that section, passing motorists have mistaken them for the Spanish moss that drapes the trees of Southern California.

The Whiskerinos patrol will be out in force this evening and all slick chins wearing trousers are warned to take to the tall timber or to crawl into bed at an early hour. The hoosegow yawns for all bare faced men.

ALPHA STORES GIVEN JUDGMENT MONEY DUE

A decision was rendered in favor of the Alpha Stores, Ltd., by Judge Raglan Tuttle in an action brought against P. L. Burr, defendant, for the sum of $437.50 allegedly due for a machine drill furnished the defendant who was operating the Carlysle mine in Nevada county. Burr claimed he did not order the drill nor authorize anyone to purchase it.

It is claimed the machine was delivered in September 1934 and stolen about January 1935. In this case the court found no effort had been made by Burr to return the drill. He also claimed weather conditions prevented its removal, but the court found no effort was made to return it to the Alpha Stores, Ltd., and charged him for payment of the bill. W. E. Wright is attorney for the plaintiff.

ALSAKA MINE

A large pump has been installed at the Alaska mine at Pike City and unwatering the shaft below the drain tunnel, is proceeding at a splendid rate. Owing to the heavy flow of water in underground workings it has been estimated it will take several weeks to de-water the shaft so that active mining may be started. The property was reconditioned last year and Mr. R. C. Eisenhauer, mining engineer who holds the original lease, has sold the property under a lease and bond to a new company.

WHISKERINOS WAGON PATROLS STREETS IN QUEST OF THE SHAVEN

Dr. Ormiston Swazey of Nevada City, tall, slender and with a mustache and beard that should be the envy of all, was the honored guest in the first trip of the Whiskerino Patrol wogan Tuesday evening as it drove gaily up Broad street, the attendants in costume looking for the unwary shaven.

As the wagon came to the Alpha store three "slick chins" were warned to scamper and beat it to Grass Valley and they lost no time in leaving their seats. At Grizzel and Dolan's corner a heavy set little man, who had been imbibing too freely in spirits that cheer, suddenly beheld the colorful patrol wagon and gaily decked attendants with their guest. He fled unceremoniously bumping into the brick building as he turned the corner in his haste to get away and spun 'round and 'round finally regaining his balance and peeping around the corner.

CHAMBER WILL MEET MONDAY

The regular meeting of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce will take place next Monday evening at the chambers room on Commercial street. The president, Fred E. Conner, prges all members who can possibly do so to be present, as there are several matters of importance to be discussed.

CAMPOREE WILL BE HELD MAY 16 AT SKI COURSE

Next week end, Saturday and Sunday, May 16 and 17, the Annual Spring Camporee for Tahoe Area Council scouts will be held on the grounds of the Nevada City Ski club nine miles east of Nevada City on the Tahoe Ukiah highway. This year the camp will revert to the non-regimented wilderness type, where the patrols will select their own campsites. The Camporee Campsite was located by Scoutmasters George Schrader of Nevada City and Harry Goudge of Grass Valley. This year's Camporee planned, located and handled by the scout leaders association calls for the solution by the scouts of a camp problem. The actual 24 hour camping trip is to represent the middle day of a five day hike. Ten miles per day is the distance to be covered on each of the fictitious five days. Everything for the camp must be carried on the back of the campers. The question is how much camping comfort and equipment will be carried by the scouts.

Scoutmaster Ray Crothers of Grass Valley will be the registration officer. District Commissioner Jeff Mooers of Grass Valley is in charge of judging. Scoutmaster VanCourt Warren of Auburn is in charge of closing ceremonies. Scoutmaster Phil Jordan of Roseville is in charge of Sunday morning scout activities and demonstrations. Scoutmaster Fred Stephen of Roseville is general secretary. Scout Executive Harris Ricksecker is in charge of Camp Fire and Sunday Scout services.

Oscar A. Kirkham, Deputy Regional Scout Executive of Salt Lake City will participate in the Saturday night campfire with both singing and interesting experiences. Sunday morning he will meet with the adult leaders present before he leaves at 11 a. m. to catch his train back to Salt Lake City.

One of the scout demonstrations and activities Sunday morning will be animal packing. At this time the scouts will be given the opportunity to try their "hand" at this type of packing. The public is invited to attend and inspect the camp.

SENIOR BALL TO BE HELD MAY 22

A busy Senior Class at the local high school is maturing plans for the annual Senior Ball which will be held in Armory Hall one week from tonight on Friday evening, May 22. Under the supervision of their advisor, Miss Esther Temaine, the graduates have planned their decorations in a Japanese garden theme, with huge colored lanterns and colorful fan decorations predominating.

One of Rollie Barton's orchestras from Sacramento has been secured for the affair with the possibility that Barton himself will be present to direct his group.

One general committee has been made of the entire graduating class with Winton Whitley as chairman and Mervin Doolittle as sub-chairman.

WATCH OUT NOW AND KEEP YOUR CHINS DIRTY

Ted Janiss announces that there will be a meeting of the Whiskerino club in Armory Hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock sharp. A kangaroo court will be held.

The club is expecting a big turnout from Grass Valley and the San Juan Whiskerinos announce a 100 per cent response. Mr. Janiss also stated Pinedale on the Colfax road below Grass Valley has promised to attend. Janiss says: "Look out for a ripsnorting time. The patrol wagon will be ready for action May 15 and the hoosegow will also be ready." Janiss admonishes: "Watch out you mugs, keep your chins dirty."

PLAN COMMUNITY CHEST FOR NEV. CITY CHARITIES

The committee appointed by Fred E. Conner, president of the Chamber of Commerce, to present plan for instituting a community chest in this city, will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room. The committee consists of H. E. Kjorlie, chairman, William F. Roddy, and H. M. Leete.

Inquiries among business men, made by members of the committee, indicate that the plan generally is welcomed. It is stated that to institute once a year a solicitation for funds for various charities and activities that now go out independently and make one drive after another for funds. would be regarded as a boon by most business and professional men.

BILL IMPENDING IMPROVE NEVADA CITY POSTOFFICE

On May 9th it was announced a bill for constructing and improving the post offices in the west was pending in the House, Washington, D. C. As listed the deficiency bill also contains provisions for constructing or repairing federal buildings in 34 cities and towns in California. Among those in Superior California where improvements are planned are Nevada City and Grass Valley.

While service in the Nevada City post office is efficient and courteous it is well known to all local citizens that the increased population in Nevada City and surrounding districts, has outgrown by far the capacity of the local building.

Mrs. Ed Rose, of the Rose Fashion Shop, spent last Sunday in Lodi visiting with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coulter have as a house guest, Mrs. Mary Bahmier of Modesto.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Lageson and son motored to Sacramento Wednesday and will spend the week end in that city. Mr. Lageson, county horticultural commissioner, is attending to business pertaining to his work.

CITY COUNCIL AND PARK BOARD DISCUSS POOL

The city council last evening conferred with the park commission regarding proposed improvements for the swimming pool, which it is expected will be open shortly after the first of June. The park commission had obtained estimates of a filter system and cholorination plant which would cost approximately $2,000.

It was suggested by members of the commission that this cost could probably be spread over a term of four or five years, and that part of the cost could be defrayed by turning toward it the receipts from the adult admissions, the annual water pageant, and such other activities as the park commission might undertake during the year.

It was the concensus of opinion of the city council, however, that in the city's present financial condition it would be unwise to make commitments at this time. It was suggested by finishing the bottom of the pool in some waterproof material and covering over the rough surface a considerable improvement could be made, in that it would be easier to see to the bottom of the pool. It was also suggested that the water be changed twice a week instead of once a week as has been the prectice in the past, and that the use of the chloride compound which has been used in the past two seasons be continued, even though relatively it is a costly method of keeping the water in a sanitary condition. The park commission was asked to obtain estimates of cost for finishing the pool either in paint or stucco.

The commission was also asked to obtain figures for grading the baseball field, which the Fourth of July committee expects to use both for baseball and field sports during the celebration in this city.

The council intimated that it might be able next year to install a filtration and chlorination plant.

ALLEGHANY ROAD MEET ON MAY 28

The road meeting which the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce highway committee was to have yesterday with business men at Alleghany was postponed due to the rain and the fact some members of the committee were unable to get away.

The meeting has been set for Thursday, May 28. The Nevada City Chamber has offered its good offices to Alleghany to aid them in obtaining a real highway from Alleghany to the Downieville-Nevada City road. The present highways to Alleghany for some time have miserably fallen short of the traffic needs of that prosperous mining town.

The members of the Nevada City Chamber committee on highways are: Judge Raglan Tuttle, chairman; R. L. P. Bigelow, O. E. Odegaard, C. E. Clarke, George H. Calanan, H. E. Kjorlie, and F. F. Cassidy.

Jimmy Gets Investigated

(Contributed)

Have you been investigated yet?

America, always with sense of humor enough to laugh at itself, is having some fun these days with the nation's apparent weakness for investigations.

They're telling about how little Johnny who sat in the front row in the little red schoolhouse used to bawl and run to teacher and tell on the roughneck Jimmy who hit him with a paper wad. Today all that is changed. The modern youngster isn't satisfied with merely telling teacher. He rises pompously from his little desk and solemnly demands a Senate investigation.

Unquestionably such good humored ridicule serves a serious purpose by discouraging over indulgence. But we must remember that it is investigation inspired for Democratic or Republican party purposes that America is laughing out of court these days, and not non-political, scientific, fact-finding investigation that is the only door to true knowledge. Of this last there is still a great scarcity.

Peter Voiss Weeps

(Contributed)

Peter Voiss, the picturesque old prospector who shot a man dead for taking his picture, sits disconsolately weeping in confinement, worrying over the fate of his best friends, his burros, and longing to be in the open rough country again, plodding along beside his prehistoric cart.

But the state could do no less than shut him away from a civilization with which he was tragically out of harmony. It is as though a veteran prospector of '49 had stepped suddenly into the swirl of modern life, into perplexity and bewilderment. It is a startling reminder of how far we have advanced.

Picturesquesness is lost, perhaps, as the wheel of progress rolls on to replace it with efficiency. The horse and buggy had to give way to the motor car. Candles and kerosene lamps gave way to unromantic electric lights. The old food vendor who sold bread or milk or vegetables from a horse-drawn cart in the street has given way to food distributors, that must must feed millions quickly, cleanly and efficiently. The old cobbler who tediously fashioned shoes in his home has given way to the modern, thousand-a-day shoe factory.

This is our destiny, and though we may mourn loss of the picturesque, perhaps our guiding star knows best. Efficiency brings fuller lives to great masses of people, bringing within their means shoes and food and autos they could never before afford. Even those who produced in the old way and feel at first that progress hurts them, soon become adjusted to the modern way and share its benefits with all civilization.

Tragic is the death of the guiltless man Peter Voiss shot. And Voiss himself is a pitiful misfit. But we may rejoice that we have advanced so far from the day he represents.

FISHERMEN FLOCKING TO GOLD PAN LODGE

The popular sportsmen's resort, the Gold Pan Lodge, on the Yuba Pass highway, north of Camptonville has been entertaining large crowds of fishermen from all over the state. The increasing demand for supplies, cabins, groceries, beer and wine has forced the proprietor, Mr. Bill Davis, to enlarge the club room to accomodate his increasing patronage. Alterations have just been completed.

A large new dance floor has been laid and a modern amplifying system installed to furnish music at any time of day or evening for the dance crowds that have been making the Gold Pan Lodge their rendezvous.

Another beer shoot will be held at the Lodge on Sunday, June 7th, at 1:30 p. m.

Fishing is reported as being fairly good in some of the small streams and lakes north of Camptonville.

Miss Neita Botting of San Francisco, has accepted a position in the Bowman Beauty Parlor in Nevada City. She is a former Nevada City girl and had come up to attend the wedding of her former schoolmate, Mrs. Beth Young Williams when she found the opening.

To My Beard

(By Francis Bradford)

(Written in a spirit of fun, and with no thought of ridicule toward Joyce Kilmer's "Trees.")

I think that I shall never see
  Another beard as fine as thee;
A beard which covers up my vest,
  And leaves the multitudes impressed;
Which draws a host of jealous stares
  From men whose own are scant affairs;
A beard which may in summer wear
  A nest of robins in its hair;
Which far outranks the beards of old,
  And shelters me from wind and cold;
Other mottled growths I see,
  But not another beard like thee.

STAGE SET FOR STATE'S COLORFUL CELEBRATION

ANGELS CAMP, May 14.—The stage is set. The crowd is coming twenty five thousand strong to attend the world's most unique celebration. The Jumping Frog Jubilee in Angels Camp May 16-17. Here in this picturesque town in the Sierra foothills, the drama and humor of the first jumping frog contest as chronicled by Mark Twain will be re-enacted on the identical spot where stood Jim Smiley, the owner of the now famous Dan'l Webster, the frog two Bowery slickers filled with buck shot and escaped with all bets more than 70 years ago.

Five hundred frogs from every state in the nation will participate in the contest, held annually to pick the world's champion of frogdom. Leo Carrillo, famous stage and screen star flanked by a bevq of the Wampus screen stars, will be master of ceremonies.

Included on the two day program will be a '49er show, a mile long street parade, using vehicles of the vintage of 1849 and the 12 mile pony express race from San Andreas to Angels Camp.

PTA TO MEET

Washington Grammar School P. T. A. is holding a meeting this afternoon. A good attendance is anticipated as Mrs. E. T. Bonner, delegate to the P. T. A. convention in San Jose, will give her report.

FRED FOOTE IS PHILCO RADIO TOUR WINNER

Fred Foote of the Foote Electrical company, has received an unusual honor and reward for outselling all competitors in his class dealing in Philco radios. He is one of sixteen dealers in the cities north of Fresno to be awarded by the manufacturers a four weeks tour embracing a trip across the continent to New York, a sea voyage to Cuba and other islands, a return to the manufacturing plant at Philadelphia, and finally home by any route he chooses.

On the boat a convention of dealers and distributors with the president and other executives of the Philco company will be held. Foote will leave Sacramento on May 20 and join a special Philco train at Ogden. Arriving in New York the party will sail for Havana on May 24. He expects to return the latter part of June, though his ticket will be good for six months.

Foote ranked fourth in number of Philco sales among the sixteen lucky winners of the tour. This, despite the fact that Grass Valley is listed among the smaller cities in the area embraced by the six months' selling contest.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Winney and son visited Mr. Winney's mother, Mrs. C. W. Winney of Taft, who is showing improvement in a severe sick spell. Miss Dorothy Winney, who has been visiting in Taft for some time returned home with them.

YOU can't keep good news from spreading—so the word is out that the handsome Series 40 Buick Special is not only big, and beautiful, and nimble, and smooth—but amazingly thrifty to boot!

One fellow, for instance, writes that he is getting three more miles per gallon than the salesman promised—why, asks he, don't we print such important news?

The fact is, we don't advertise specific miles-per-gallon figures because you simply can't safely set a figure that could be right for all drivers under all conditions.

So, instead of following the popular custom of claiming the world, on such matters we prefer to play safe and "talk small"—leaving Buick's really surprising frugality to be one of those nice things you discover after you've driven one awhile!

It works out fine, too! Owners are constantly coming in to brag about high mileage averages, low costs on oil, long trips without a penny for service or attention.

Call it our ace in the hole, if you like. With all of its style, and comfort, and standout performance—at prices beginning at $1075—Buick's a winner and its thrift is all plus. Come ride in one and see if that's not the everlasting truth!

SENIOR GRIDDERS TO CLASH WITH 1935 VETS

High school gridders of Nevada City are seeing a good deal of fast practice this week. They are looking forward to a very interesting game on this Friday afternoon. At 3:30 today, the graduating varsity will meet the senior gridders on the high school gridiron in a fast and furious session of football.

This civil war, to test whether the old fellows or the varsity to be are the stronger team, should include a sufficient amount of enthusiastic playing to attract a large number of observers. A charge of ten cents to all will be made, the proceeds to be used in building the fund for the erection of the bleacher seats at the field.

May bless and benefit mankind;
Your idea of a "better way,"
May years of arduous toil repay;
The work you plan today—and do
Make life more wonderful and true.

And never plan or dream or thought
Which men have labored for and taught,
Can be so finished and profound
But that a better may be found.
A stronger light to show the way,
A fuller life is ours today,
Because men were not satisfied
Until a "different" way was tried.

This mother age which to us brings
Rare gifts of sound and light and wings,
It ever seeking something new,
Relying still on me and you.
Our earnest thoughts, our magic dream
Are more than ripples on life's stream;
Through them new labors are begun
And more enduring victories won.

SUPERVISORS OF YUBA HEAR LIBRARY REQUEST

(By RITA DAVIS)

Secretary Women's Club of Camptonville

The Woman's Club of Camptonville met last week at the home of Mrs. Julius Cassano. Visitors attending were Mrs. Ed Long and Mrs. Lou Price.

The club was mainly interested in the report about the supervisor's meeting in Marysville on May 6th, when the county free library question was taken up. Camptonville's representative delegation consisted of Mrs. John Ramm, Mrs. Len Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Davis. Mr. Davis acted as spokesman for the group. The supervisors are expected to decide upon the library when they arrange their budget in July. While there are 145 registered voters in Camptonville, about 170 residents signed the library petition. Petitions went over very successfully wherever they were circulated in Yuba county.

The club will give a card party on tonight, May 15, at 8 p. m. at the Gold Pan Lodge. Admission will be twenty five cents. All are invited.

Arrangements will be made for a group of girls to be taken to the Camp Fire Girls rally at Grass Valley Memorial park, on May 23. At the close of the meeting the ladies enjoyed a social visit over the coffee and cake served by the hostess, Mrs. Cassano.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, 8 p. m. June 5th, at the Gold Pan Lodge where will be given a campfire weiner roast to members of the club and to their husbands, by the hostess, Mrs. Davis.

SINGER OF EARLY DAYS HAS HOME IN SOU. FRANCE

Last week a mention was made of Emma Nevada, internationally famous opera singer, who was born at the ghost town of Alpha. Very few people in Nevada City know that the home of Mr. E. T. R. Powell on Pine street at the northern end of the Gault bridge was built largely from the lumber taken in the razing of the Baptist church in this city. This church was built in 1850 and was the building in which the voice of the great singer was first heard.

She was born Emma Wixom, at Alpha eastern Nevada county, and later moved to Nevada City with her parents. Dr. and Mrs. Jack Wixom. She took the name "Emma Nevada" that she might honor this city and the state of Nevada, for she moved with her parents to Austin, Nevada, when a small girl. After graduating from Mills College, Oakland, she went to Europe where she made her operatic debut in London in 1880. This famed native of Nevada county is still living in southern France.

TWO NEW SAW MILLS FOR CAMPTONVILLE

CAMPTONVILLE, May 14.—Two new saw mills are about to spring up in this section. Frank Pendola is busy clearing away a mill site on his property about four miles from town. A Sacramento person or firm whose name has not been disclosed has about completed negotiation for the erection of a mill on the Yuba Pass highway in the vicinity of Frog Hollow, about four miles north of this place. It is claimed that this mill will market the timber growing on the Ramm, Bishop and Turner properties in that section and that the bulk of the output will be shipped to Sacramento to be used in a box factory.

FAST GAME ON HI GRID TODAY

Nevada City High's gridiron will be the scene of a hot pigskin battle this afternoon when the eleven graduating gridders meet the present high school varsity in four quarters of fast and furious civil war. In the line of regular spring practice, it was felt that such a game would bring out the good points in the high school men who are candidates for the varsity squad, and would also prove of interest to any fans who enjoy the game.

An admission charge of ten cents for all was decided upon to build the fund which will be used in the construction of bleacher seats at the high school field. The addition of such seats will make the future foot ball seasons more convenient for local patrons and should result in better attendance at games.

The eleven graduates who will play their last game of Nevada City high football are the following: Elliott, Lopez, Doolittle, Roberts, Small, Budie, Wilde, J. Stephens, Steger, D. Jones Stevens.

The starting whistle will be blown at 3:45 this afternoon with a large attendance of students and citizens expected.

BISHOP PORTER TO PREACH IN TRINITY SUNDAY

The public is extended a cordial invitation by the Rev. Charles Washburn, rector, to attend this outstanding service. The bishop will address the Sunday school at 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Earl E. Moonier who did considerable damage to the pumps at the Plaza garage in Nevada City last Friday when he struck them his car, was arraigned before Judge W. L. Mobley and came up for his preliminary hearing yesterday afternoon.

MEMORIES OF THE NEW CAR

"Charles," said the father to his 5-year old offspring, "come here a minute. I want you to see your brand-new baby brother."

The small lad went on reluctant feet and looked at the baby. Suddenly large tears began to roll down his cheeks.

"Why, Son," his father asked, "what is the matter? Aren't you glad that we have a new boy?"

"D-di-did you trade me in on him?" sobbed Charles.

"We seek to perform in an unroutine way a service which, due to the public's requirements, must necessarily be handled in volume."
—From our Annual Report, year 1935

Two billion, 785 million local and long distance calls were handled by us last year on the Pacific Coast.

We earnestly strive to render a service in which every call is handled as an individual transaction between our patrons. Not one of the millions of calls do we consider "just routine." BIGELOW LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN FOR SEAT IN STATE SENATE

He has been as he puts it, "strong for the mining industry" and has always backed it wherever he could. In the legislature he plans to ask for an appropriation to conduct a mining survey of California so that a definite chart of the mineral resources can be made.

By this work, he feels, eastern capital will be attracted to California, new projects will be started and unemployment lessened.

Realizing that the wild life of his district is also a valuable asset, Bigelow has pledged himself to a program of fish and game conservation. He has been active in conservation work in one of his lodges, being conservation chairman of the forestry and conservation committee of the grand parlor of Native Sons. He also has been conservation chairman of the Sacramento Regional council of the State Chamber of Commerce.

As a former civil service employee himself, Bigelow, is an advocate of the merit system of civil service as employed by the state. He belonged to the federal employees union and will vote for state measures which will improve the California civil service system toward the end of greater efficiency and less governmental costs.

An advocate of economy in government, Bigelow will vote against any measures which would increase the taxpayers burden and will strive at all times toward reducing governmental costs where possible.

Not an agriculturalist himself, Richard Bigelow will take council from those better acquainted with the industry toward the end that fruit growers and other ranch interests of this industry will be well served.

An independent candidate, free from any machine or the ties of any special interests or groups, Bigelow is truly a man to serve his district in an honest capable manner.

During the war he took a large hand in activities of the northern counties and was secretary of the Council of the Defense in Nevada county and director for the second and third liberty loan drives.

He was supervisor of Intelligence Department, U S. Army in Nevada, Placer, Sierra and Yuba counties at that time and worked then as he would work now to prevent subversive influences from destroying the government.

He is an honorary member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Banner Post, Nevada City, a tribute to the high esteem in which he is held by service men.

Mr. Bigelow has a wife, a daughter and two grandchildren.

In connection with his various lodges and clubs, he has held some of the following offices: Senior member of the Society of American Foresters and vice chairman of the California region, past exalted ruler Nevada City lodge 518, B P. O. E., past president of Hydraulic Parlor 56 of Native Sons of the Golden West, past governor of the Fred Greeley presidents assembly of Native Sons of the Golden West, governor general of past presidents association, general assembly of the Native Sons, an honorary director of the Nevada City Rotary club, and member of the Yreka camp of Woodmen of the World.

Mrs. L. Wright and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Figurski and children, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burr, Mrs. Verna Sutherland and Mr. Jack Griffith will compose a picnic party that will enjoy a trip to Reno, Nev., Sunday. They will also call on Mrs. Harry Peterson friend of Mr. and Mrs. Burr, who resides in Reno.

MANY ROADS IMPROVED AROUND CAMPTONVILLE

CAMPTONVILLE, May 13.—The Works Progress Administration Camptonville Road Improvement Project No. 975 was completed on Friday and drawn to a close, and in its place was begun Yuba County District Wide Road Improvement Project No. 3740.

The completed project planned for a crew of ten, started with six, soon increased to 16 has been operating since last November, and in review of what has been done with same, a marked road improvement is noticeable. Considerable rock and gravel has been put on the Pendola-Mill Creek road, the road from Oak Valley to Weeds Point has been drained and the bad places graveled, the crossings on Willow Creek both near town and at Garden Valley were replaced after the washouts during the bad storms. Some work was done on the Camptonville-Pike City road, and quite some improvement consisting of blasting out the rocks and narrow places and hauling gravel out the Moonshine road took place. The old Downieville road from here to the Sierra county line had the bad places repaired.

Project No. 3740 is continuing the same kind of work, with improvements on the Hour House-Pike City road, further work on the Pendola Road and Weeds Point-oungs Hill road. It is hoped that this WPA project in cooperation with outside interests will get a bridge built at Garden Valley, and the old road which has been washed away and the road destroyed several years ago will be replaced.

WPA work is done by working two periods a month, with 60 hours of labor per man in each period. The men on the local project have put forth some very fine work, realizing that the expenditure of this money was to the benefit of the place where they lived, and the more that could be accomplished, the greater benefit the community would obtain.

In as much as there has been no road tax in Yuba county for three years, the relief work is the only road improvement program that can be carried on at this time. Improvements have been made in this manner that would not otherwise be possible.

MRS. RUNDY IS HOSTESS

Mrs. Theodore Rundy entertained three tables of bridge at her cosy home on Nevada street, Tuesday afternoon. Scores were made by Mrs. Maude Hayes, first; Mrs. J. J. Fortier, second and Mrs. W. P. Sawyer, low. Serving of dainty refreshments brought a delightful afternoon to a close.

CHARIVARI AND DANCE, SAN JUAN SATURDAY MAY 16

Owing to the fact that the Whiskerinos of Grass Valley and Nevada City are having a big dance at Olympia park on Saturday night, May 23, the San Juan Ridge Improvement league, which had scheduled a dance for that night, has moved its date ahead to May 16, tomorrow night when at Twamley Memorial hall in North San Juan, it will give a grand ball to which all Whiskerinos in the county are cordially invited.

The San Juan division of Whiskerinos have announced their intention of coming out in farce to attend the county dance at Lake Olympia in return for the courtesy of the big attendance at their last dance at North San Juan. The dance at San Juan tomorrow night will celebrate the opening of a new beer emporium belonging to Jack Brooks and there will also be a charivari of a highly popular young couple who have just been married.

Frank Miller has arranged to bring over a bus load of San Juan Whiskerinos on the night of May 23 to the dance at Lake Olympia, and several have arranged auto parties who will also take part in the festivities.

CONTRACTOR SUES ON FORECLOSURE LIEN

George M. Bobst, contractor of Nevada City, has started an action in the superior court against Joseph Martin and others, for the foreclosure of a lein to the amount of $1763. Bobst alleges he took a contract to build the Martin service station on the highway south of Nevada City, for the defendants and that they compelled him to cease work and that there remains due the above amount for work performed and materials furnished before the contract was taken from him. H. Ward Sheldon of Nevada City is attorney for plaintiff.

Mission San Luis Rey Founded 1798

While the Mission San Luis Rey de Francia is the second of the twenty one Franciscan missions stretching from San Diego to Sonoma in the north, it was the eighteenth one founded.

During the period of its prosperity, it was the grandest of all the missionary establishments in California and was called by Father Engelhardt, noted mission authority, "King of the Missions."

In the early days of the Missions San Diego de Alcala, the need for a station between it and Mission San Juan Capistrano was felt. The distance separating the two could not be covered in a day, which made traveling hazardous, and, furthermore, the overworked Fathers in San Diego often had to go to intervening rancherias to attend upon sick Indians.

The first move to locate a site for a mission between San Diego and San Juan Capistrano was made on July 23, 1795, when Governor Diego Borica sent out an exploring party with which went Father Juan Mariner. The latter recommended the rancheria Palo, but this site was deemed to be too far off the Camino Real and in 1796 Fr. Presidente Lasuen, himself, selected the present site which Father Juan Prespi in July, 1769, passing there with Portola, had reported to be an ideal location for a mission and had named San Juan Capistrano. This place following the founding of Mission San Juan Capistrano, had been called San Juan Capistrano el Viejo, or Capistrano to distinguish it from the mission of the same name.

On June 13, 1798, Fr. Lasuen formally established the mission. Viceroy Branciforte had chosen the patron saint, St. Louis IX, King of France, hence the name San Luis Rey de Francia. On that same day, the good Father Presidente baptized fifty four Indian children. Under such propitious circumstances did the new mission start and on August 29, 1798, Fr. Lasuen proudly reported to Governor Borcia that 147 Indians had been baptized and twenty eight couples married.

The story of San Luis Rey is the most tragic in the history of California missions. It ascended to heights of success and grandeur attained by no other mission and its destruction, brought about by years of strife between the church on the one hand and greedy civil officials and politicians and the military on the other, remains a blot on the annals of early California.

Under Father Antonio Pepri and his assistants, the mission steadily grew in size and prosperity, these missionarie proving themselves to be great builders. Troubles with the military which began in 1810 would seem to have been prophetic of the end of San Luis Rey. In that year Fr. Peyri several times was forced to complain officially against encroachments upon mission lands by the soldiers and from then on the tribulations of the priests increased.

During 1810, the Indian population at the mission increased from 1,121 to 1,571 and 432 converts were received. All these had to be fed, housed and clothed and placed in gainful occupations by the Fathers. More accomodations were required and in 1811 Fr. Peyri laid the foundations for a new church, which is the mission of the present day. It was completed and dedicated on October 4, 1815. Meanwhile, a chapel and granary had been constructed at Pala and by 1818 the chapel had been enlarged and another granary built. Improvements continued until 1832. In 1826 some 2,869 neophytes were enrolled at San Luis Rey. Four years before, Father Peyri officially reported that the mission had 20.500 sheep, 12,000 head of cattle, 500 horses and 150 mules.

The revolt in Mexico against Spain in 1810 brought additional grief to San Luis Rey and other missions. No goods for the missions nor pay for the soldiers in California came from Mexico with the result that the military demanded that the mission Indians support the soldiers and their families, and furnish the equipment and cash payments. Following Mexican independence, Fr. Peyri contributed heavily in money to the territorial government and this drain on the mission increased steadily and rapidly.

The ruination of San Luis Rey is placed by Father Englehardt largely upon the shoulders of Territorial Governor Echeandia and Pio Pico, civil administrator of the mission following secularization of the California missions, and later governor. He condemns them in language that is strong for a priest.

Worn out by his long battle to save his mission and protect his Indians and their lands, Father Peyri at the age of seventy, sailed from San Diego January 17, 1832, for Spain, hearbroken and ill. Tradition has it that five hundred of his converts on horseback hastened to San Diego to bring him back, but arrived as the father's ship was sailing. They rode their horses into the sea begging him to return. Peyri took home with him two Indian boys who idolized him.

In December preceding his departure the official report on San Luis Rey showed that 2,819 Indians lived at the mission under his care, that there were 26,000 head of cattle, 25,500 sheep, 1,200 goats, 2,150 horses, 250 mules and 300 pigs. A total of 5,298 baptisms had been administered, mostly by Father Peyri.

The wealth of San Luis Rey and other California missions excited the cupidity of the Spanish government and as early as 1813 a decree confiscating all American mission property was issued. This order was not confirmed for seven years and enactment was delayed twelve years longer, at the end of which time the Congress of Mexico issued an edict secularizing all the missions.

On July 15, 1833, Governor Figueroa ordered all qualified neophytes at San Luis Rey freed from missionary control publishing his regulations for the Emancipation of the Mission Indians, and on August 9, 1834, directed seizare of all the property of the mission. Formal confiscation was completed when the mission was surrendered to Pio Pico and Pablo de la Portilla, commissioners named by Governor Figueroa on August 22, 1835.

The civil government took over the mission buildings, church, all property, including sacred vessels, vestments, etc., and six ranchos owned and operated by the padres and their Indian converts. The total value of the property seized was placed at $203,737.37 and outstanding debts were listed at $9,300.87.

On this date the death knell of Mission San Luis Rey was sounded. Salaried administrators took complete charge Through the terms of a succession of such administrators, the mission padres bravely tried to protect the rights of the Indians and endured with them the hardships and starvation that followed civil control. The missionaries who had been founders and guardians of the mission and the neiphytes became mere tenants and barely were tolerated as such.

Many of the converts fled to the mountains and reverted to their savage ways. Others refused to work and became shiftless and troublesome. Those who remained with the mission became little more than slaves.

"Such at this time," says Father Englehardt, "was the situation at San Luis Rey, which down to the arrival of Echeandia, eight years before, sheltered a happy and contented family of more than 2,000 Indian converts."

Stirred to action by the misery of the Indians, Governor Alvarado on January 19, 1839, appointed William Hartnell, an Englishman, inspector of missions, and directed him to prepare a report on conditions. Hartnell, credited with being sincere and honest, tried to help Mission San Luis Rey. On July 5, 1840, he removed Pio Pico as administrator and appointed Jose Antonio Estudillo, of San Diego to succeed him. Pico, however, continued intrigues to gain possession of the Indian ranchos.

In March, 1843, Governor Manuel Micheltorena reinstated the Franciscans and on April 22 Mission San Luis Rey was turned over to Fr. Jose Maria Zelvidea. Peace came again to San Luis Rey, but lasted only two short years. Pico conspired successfully against Micheltorena, drove him from the country and himself became governor. He was determined to wipe out the missions. He brought San Luis Rey to the verge of bankruptcy and on May 18, 1846, illegally sold the mission to Jose A. Cot and Jose A. Pico, including the Rancho Pala, for $2,000 in silver and $437.50 in grain. After American occupation this sale was nullified by the United States Supreme Court.

Under American army control, San Luis Rey received kindly treatment. Pico fled to Mexico in August 1846. Successive American Indian agents brought a measure of prosperity back to the Mission and bettered conditions for the Indians. On March 18, 1851, President Abraham Lincoln returned the California missions to the church. Mission San Luis Rey possesses the original decree of return signed by Lincoln.

Neglected and abandoned except for various military occupations for half a century, pillaged by vandals, San Luis Rey by 1892 was in a sorry state of ruin. In that year, two Franciscan friars from Mexico asked and received permission from Bishop Francis Mora to establish a novitiate, erected a two story frame building across from the church and on May 12, 1893, the mission was rededicated. Through the untiring efforts of Rev. Fr. Joseph O'Keefe, who devoted nineteen years to his task, Mission San Luis Rey was restored to its present beautiful form. In 1913 the Sisters of the Precious

GEORGE SCHRADER TO GO TO SHASTA FOREST

It is with regret the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Schrader learn that they are to be transferred from Nevada City the first of the month to Mt. Shasta City, in the Shasta National Forest.

Mr. Schrader as chief clerk in the local Tahoe National Forest office, has given splendid service. Mrs. Schrader and children have taken an active interest in the city's social life and will be missed.

Mr. Clyde Gwin of the Cleveland National Forest, San Diego county has been chosen to take Mr. Schrader's place in the local office.

Colonel O. B. Perry of San Francisco spent last week end in Nevada City and inspected the Ragon mine which he has a bond and lease on, and is being operated by Mr. O. McCraney.

Story Of Old Gold And Crimson Conifers

(By CATHERINE BRAITHWAITE)

The architecure of the mining towns through the northern section of California is probably the most picturesque of any in the state. The larger stores, banks, and Wells Fargo buildings, almost without exception, were constructed of very narrow bright red bricks. The windows and doors were shuttered with sheets of iron painted a vivid green and made secure against bandits with great cumbersome bars and locks. The archtecture is a mixture of Boston conservatism and western self protection, producing a type of building that is almost original and entirely unique. As a rule the streets are crooked and narrow, just as when the prospectors trudged along them with their burros or the stage coaches rolled along them after a trying and dangerous trip through the mountains. Scales on which fortunes in gold were weighed are still to be seen in some towns; barrooms where roisterers gathered for a night of it, or those where the conservative citizen took his "forty" drops still survive.

The foothills, before the mining towns came into existence, had been a wilderness without habitation or roads. A beautiful scene of smooth-flowing rivers, sparkling streams and unlimited acres of gorgeous wild flowers of every size and color. The foothills were an almost impenetrable maze of chaparral, of manzanita, greasewood, hazelnut, and the dignified madrone, while the higher mountains were covered with forests of sugar pine, incense cedar, and Douglas spruce. The red banks of the rivers had been washed away by the swift muddy waters and formed the canyons of the Stanislaus, Mokelumne, Merced, Tuolumne, Calaveras, Yuba and Feather rivers, with their many forks and tributaries, and from their rich gravels and black sands gold was to be obtained by dint of hard labor. The great valleys, now producing great fortunes in diversified fruits and grains, were then just a grazing place for herds of elk and antelope.

In such a setting for economic development, necessarily numerous mining camps, or gathering places of miners, arose from the wilderness, centered around the needed stores, saloons, dance halls, express offices, and all the necessary concimitents of mining life. These camps sprang from nowhere with overnight growth. Their size and lasting qualities, depended upon the permanance and richness of the gold deposits, by which alone they were called into being. Even in 1850 some of them became county seats, and several are prosperous today. Among them are Sonora, Jackson, Auburn, and Nevada City. Downieville and Shasta are only shadows of their former greatness, for the county seats had other resources with which to carry on.

It is hard to believe that only a few years back all these hundreds of mining camps and towns were busy thriving cities and that their combined inhabitants numbered far into the thousands. But today they are deserted by man. On the ridges, in the flats and on the slopes where once the towns grew and pulsated with life, only silence and desolation remain. Their wooden homes and business buildings, abandoned of necessity by man, have yielded to decay and fire Frequently only the old brick stores remain, partially in ruins with their iron shuttered doors and windows gaping on rustry hinges.

The newer generation of men and women were forced to leave their birthplaces in the mining towns and wrest a living from the lower valleys and big cities. In many cases the old folks were sent for and transplanted in the newer soil. But in other cases the old timers still inhabit the old deserted towns. They cling to their delapitated homesteads that are crumbling over their heads in the clear cold air of the foothills. Just as long as there is a bit of roof over their heads or a slab of bacon in the cupboard the old settlers are unwilling to leave the gulches and hills that their fathers pioneered, and where they were born.

It is romantic and extremely interesting to walk or drive through the foothills that were at one time dotted with lively, busy towns, but now so universally deserted yet so picturesque in their decay. Once the active population of these towns controlled the state; now its few are lost in great valleys and greater cities, upon which they had always looked down from their mountain homes.

In the early days when a party of prospectors started for the hills it was nearly always under the authority of one dependable leader. If gold was discovered and a camp established, it would be named for the leader as a general rule. From San Andreas there is a twelve mile drop down into Angel's Camp, founded by George Angel in Calaveras county. Here is the scene of Bret Harte's famous stories, among them "The Bell Ringer of Angel's". Like other old towns on this historic road it retains many of its old buildings of the days of '49. Here is the old theatre in which Booth played; the Selkirk House, the George Bennet House, the Angels Hotel, Stickle and Scribner's store.

A road branches east to Vallecito with its old landmark, the Dinklespiel store, and farther on is Murphy's (Wingdam) another old mining town. Here is on old Wells Fargo Express office, strongly built and guarded with iron shutters and doors. About one mile from Murphy's are the Mercer Caves, a series of twenty caves, connected with passages, fretted with stalactites and stalagmites of varying hues and fantastic shapes.

At Carson Hill, Calaveras county, in 1851 at the Morgan Mine a nugget was found weighing one hundred ninety five pounds and valued at forty thousand dollars. A few miles to the south of Carson Hill is Melones, known in the old days as Slumgullion and named Melones because at one time the mines yielded gold like melon seeds, called by the Mexicans melones. Tuttletown is in Tuolumne county. The town was named after Judge Tuttle who built a log cabin here in 1948. Within the old stone store, (Swerer's Store) Mark Twain is said to have traded his gold for the necessities of life. His cabin on Jackass Hill is still to be seen where his "Jumping Frog of Calaveras County" came into being, and made the whole world laugh.

It is hard to realize that less than a century has passed since gold was discovered in the hills above Stockton and the mining camps leaping over each other and penetrating deeper into the forests at every jump were instrumental in the discovery of the now famous Sequoia gigantea or big trees. But nevertheless the impatient trend of progress pressed on and up until the most forbidding peaks and slopes were forced to divulge their primeval secrets.

It seems incredible that the gold rush began in 1849 and scarcely two years later the force of that mad, ruthless drive should inveil these trees that had stood forty centuries unmolested. It seems incredible that common everyday picks and shovels, wielded by the rough hands of miners should be the tools to unlock and present to the world a priceless treasure of the ages. Yet it is undoubtedly true that A. T. Dowd, a member of a construction camp, accidentally stumbled upon these crimson jewels which were destined to startle and mystify the human race. It remained for one puny, ordinary man to stride entirely unprepared into the Eden-like valley where Nature carefully guarded the remaining evidence of an era in which she made the animal life and vegetation of this earth in a huge and magnificent scale and bring it into the light of civilization. In imagination one can see Mr. Dowd's eyes widen with amazement when he first glimpsed these gigantic trees. But no one, at that particular moment could have untangled his bewildered and incredulous thoughts.

All along the road to the Mammoth Trees are old crumbling buildings of stone or red home-made bricks. The few remaining wooden buildings are slowly succumbing to the weather, and still others with only brick walls standing have but a few years to survive. As one passes along the streets of these towns of yesteryear, he sees old curios and relics in the windows, or a tiny firehouse whose cracked bell sounded civic warnings in the days of peril and hazard, or a tumlbedown shed where may be seen the old horse-drawn vehicles which once were proud and gay.

Rough, hard men and straying beauties from all parts of the world made up the major portion of the inhabitants in the old days. In to Angel's Camp alone were crowded four thousand people. Many of them had sailed to San Francisco, deserted the ships and came inland. Many more steamed up the San Joaquin River and Stockton Channel and came to the gold camps on foot or horseback. In the east great canvas covered wagons formed immense caravans and followed the setting sun to Carson City, Nevada where they separated and took to different sections as their resires dictated. At Lake Tahoe, many turned north and climbed up through Emigrant Gap to wander off and form settlements or to push on into the wilderness. South of Lake Tahoe many more trailed to Sacramento but the pioneer caravans for Calaveras county trundled south to Markleville and up through Ebbet's Pass. With scouts riding on ahead to find a way for the wagons and on the lookout for unfriendly Indians t,hey forced their way through along the Stanislaus river, up hill and down, blazing the shortest but difficult way to the gold fields.

At the meeting of Laurel Parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West of this city, last week, it was revealed that Miss Elinor Willoughby of Yuba City had won a four year scholarship to Mills College from the order. Laurel Parlor had the opportunity to choose an entrant this year and selected this young woman.

Provisions of the scholarship call for the winner's mother to be a member of the Native Daughters and the entrant must have a fine character and high scholastic record. Her mother, Mrs. I. L. Putnam is a member of Laurel Parlor and Miss Willoughby filled all requirements most satisfactorily. She graduated from the Nevada City grammar school and attended the Nevada City high school two years. She has always received high averages in her studies.

FISH AND GAME CLUB

The citizens of the Cisco and Big Bend district southeast of Nevada City on the Truckee river, formed a fish and game club the first meeting being held last week. Mr. Leland Smith ot the grazing division in the local Tahoe National Forest service office, attended and said they had a fine meeting. Mr. John Hodgson of Big Bend was the organizer of the club.

FEDERAL ART WORKERS MAKE VALUABLE MAPS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14,—Of tremendous aid in the control of California's forest fire hazard are the Transportation Planning and Fire Occurrence Zone maps being made by workers of the Federal Art Project under the supervision of the California Forest and Range Experiment Station at Berkeley.

These maps, according to Joseph A. Danysh, State Director for Northern California Art Projects, comprise a graphic description of the fire history, a study of existing and proposed systems of roads and the resulting protection of the surrounding country provided by each system.

Sets of these maps are being sent to each of the National Forests concerned, where they will be used to advantage as a guide in planning and constructing their road system as well as for the location of manpower units for fire protection purposes. A complete set will be kept on file in the Regional Office of the Forest Service.

Additional copies of four of the Fire Occurrence Zone maps, showing past fire history, vegetative ground cover, and the value of the ground cover for four of California's National Forests, have been made for use in firebreak studies.

Another valuable art project is the compilation and coloring, with permanent colors, of California forest resource maps. These maps are important from timber, grazing, watershed and recreational standpoints. When completed they will be put together to form a large map showing vegetation types such as timber, grasslands, woodlands or chaparral, sagebrush p,inon or juniper, cultivated and barren areas, with data taken from the timber overlay representing the different timber classifications and stand conditions. The large vegetation types show the importance of the land from the standpoint of use, while the data taken from the timber overlay present the character and classification of all lands capable of producing commercial stands of timber, and show the capacity of all potential timber lands to produce a commercial stand. These maps, when completed, will be kept in the files of the California Forest Experiment Station at Berkeley.

CAMPTONVILLE, May 14.—Two former Camptonville girls were recently married, the news of which, brought hearty congratulations from their many friends.

LeRoy Tardiville and Miss Eleanor Turner of Oroville were recently married at Reno. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Turner of Weeds Point and spent most of her life here, attending the grammar school and high school, leaving a few years ago to continue her education. Mrs. Florence Evans Celebrates 82nd Birthday

Mrs. Florence Evans of Nevada City who was born in Cambridge, Ohio, celebrated her 82nd birthday at her cozy home on Boulder street yesterday with several relatives and friends calling. She also received gifts and flowers with best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

She is another of our revered pioneers, who came from Ohio with her parents in 1864. The trip was via New oYrk city, by boat to the Isthmus, crossing it by steam cars, and one to San Francisco by boat. They landed away up in the present San Francisco as much of the city has been built on made ground.

Mrs. Evans was nine years of age and vividly remembers the little ragged, barefoot, beggars in the narrow street of New York City, as they picked up scraps and begged. They had to wait there several days until the boat sailed and 1400 passengers embarked on the ship. It was a smooth sea and fine sailing, at one place seven spouting whales were seen in the distance and was a great sight to the passengers.

The rail road was being built from San Francisco when they landed May 23, 1864 and was completed as far as Newcastle. From there they came to Nevada City by stage remaining over night at the National Hotel and going on to Phelps Hill where they lived three years, before returning to this city to remain permanently.

Her father, Mr. Adair had a blacksmith shop where Mr. Glen Cleland now has a service station on upper Broad street. He had made three trips to California coming here for his health. On one of his trips he paid $50 for a 50 pound sack of flour and being fond of peaches he paid $5 for a peach. Gold dust and nuggets were plentiful in those days and food was scarce and hard to bring into the new country where throngs of pioneers were braving all sorts of dangers to get into the new gold fields.

CABIN FIRE SETS OFF DYNAMITE

Last Tuesday afternoon a fire of unknown origin destroyed a car belonging to W. Thurston, two cabins and a small shed in which was stored a box with giant powder and caps, on the old Champion mine property west of Nevada City.

The cabins were built on the property by William Landrigan several years ago and were occupied by Mr. Thurston and son, Robert, and Harry Miller. Thurston was panning gold in a ravine out of sight of the buildings and his son was in high school, while Mr. Miller was working in a tunnel on a lease on the Champion ground held by Fred Rhoenert of Grass Valley. The exploding of the caps and dynamite was plainly heard in Nevada City and brought Miller and Thurston to the scene, but they lost all their belongings. A hole fully two feet deep was blasted in a solid cement block and fires set in numerous places about the camp and on the hill side.

Miss Keenan, who resides across Deer Creek from the mine, phoned to Nevada City and State Fire Warden W. F. Sharp and truck, Chief of Police Garfield Robson, Herbert Hallett, and Miles Coughlin responded and assisted in extinguishing the fires.
